What if we are the art?

Inspired by the RWA exhibition: These Mad Hybrids, Many Minds members have been thinking about what makes us a ‘mad hybrid’ and how would we interact with artworks and the gallery.

Blending the boundary between art, object and human, Hybrids-LIVE brings to life the exhibits and creates living sculptures that will journey in and around RWA questioning, how do we access the art?

Inspired by the ways RWA and visitors make the gallery more accessible, this performance will challenge preconceptions about how you should interact with a gallery and shine a light on the every-day performances you wouldn’t usually see.

We are Many Minds, a Bristol based mental health charity that facilitate creative spaces and make performance that put people who identify with experiences of mental ill-health in the driver’s seat as a way to break down stigma and trigger generosity and equality.
